DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Information Disclosure Statement

2. The Information disclosure Statement filed on 3/31/06 has been considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 9-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hoffman (6,603,183) in view of Oxman et al. (6,395,124).

Regarding claims 9-14 and 16, Hoffman discloses a method for attaching at least one chip (108) in a pre-molded plastic housing (102), which is considered to be optically transparent to radiation of at least one predefined transmission wavelength. The method further comprising: applying an adhesive layer (110) between the at least one chip (108) and the plastic housing (102). Hoffman does not teach irradiating the adhesive layer through the housing using radiation of the transmission wavelength for curing.

Oxman et al. while related to a similar method of attaching an electronic component to a substrate teach that using a photopolymerizable adhesive in bonding an electronic component to a substrate and then curing the adhesive by UV irradiation through the substrate is known in semiconductor art (Col. 1, lines 49+ and lines 58+).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to recognize that combining Hoffman's process with Oxman's teachings would have been beneficial because it helps to cure the adhesive (e.g., bonding material) without heating and thus, to prevent degradation or damage to any temperature sensitive component of the image sensor package.

Regarding claim 15, the Examiner notes that a recitation (e.g. the chip is a micromechanical chip) of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. The proposed method of Hoffman and Oxman would have been obvious to be applicable to a micromechanical chip.
